CYCLE TO THE BEAT OF AFRICA 2010

The Change a Life Cycle is the primary fundraiser for the Mike Thomson Change a Life Trust, which was set up after the brutal murder of Computershare senior manager Mike Thomson at his home in 2007. Wanting to make a stand against crime in the wake of this tragic event, Computershare and Mike's family decided to set up a trust that would help fight the causes and symptoms of crime. Improving crime detection through DNA sampling, trauma counselling for victims of crime and sexual abuse, helping to rehabilitate youngsters in conflict with the law and inspiring disadvantaged youths to become positive role models in their communities, are some of the areas that the Trust funds and supports.

Computershare has committed to hosting the Change a Life Cycle every year and to match all funds raised through the entry fees rand for rand. Computershare and sponsors' donations pay for the costs of the Change a Life Cycle, which means that cyclist entry fees go directly to projects supported by the Trust.
